Here is an excerpt from the book:

“My dear children,

As you embark on the journey of adulthood, I want to share with you some of the things I have learned along the way. I hope that my counsel will help you to navigate the challenges and opportunities that lie ahead and to live a life filled with purpose, meaning, and joy.

The first and most important thing I want you to know is that you are loved. You are loved unconditionally by your family, your friends, and by God. No matter what mistakes you make or what challenges you face, you are always loved.

Second, I want you to know that you are capable of great things. You have the potential to achieve anything you set your mind to. Don't be afraid to dream big and to go after your goals. With hard work and perseverance, you can achieve anything you desire.

Third, I want you to know that life is full of both joy and sorrow. There will be times when you are filled with happiness and joy, and there will be times when you are faced with challenges and adversity. It is important to remember that both joy and sorrow are part of life. Embrace the good times and learn from the bad times. Each experience will help you to grow and to become a stronger and more resilient person.

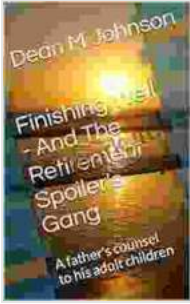

Finally, I want you to know that I am always here for you. No matter what you are going through, I am here to listen, to offer advice, and to support you in any way I can. I am your father, and I love you unconditionally.

With love,

Dad”
